MacWorld 2009 Workshops

Workshop #1 - Six Hours, Daytime - register for this workshop. Sync Squared - Rsync and ImapSync for Profit
 Monday, January 5, 2009
 9:00 am through 4:00 pm
 Location (a short cab ride or 15 min walk from the Moscone center):
 Create More, Inc.
 689 3rd Street
 San Francisco CA 94107

$249 for ACNs (Apple Consultants Network Members) or Apple Resellers, $299 for non-ACNs, $199 for Mac HelpMate Subscribers. Workshop leader: Dean Shavit Join Dean Shavit, ACSA and author of Mac HelpMate, for a day-long workshop delving into two amazing command-line tools: rsync and Imapsync. Rsync is the same underlying command line tool used by Carbon Copy Cloner and other backup solutions, but if you can learn to use it directly, you can do all sorts of truly amazing things such as remote backups over the internet, keeping two folders in sync, automated scheduled backups, bootable backups, file system snapshots, and even client / sever backups over a network. With an understanding of how of rsync works, you can easily create your own remote backup service for your customers helping protect their data and open new revenue streams for your consulting business.

The workshop will then cover how to get set up with and use Imapsync, a solution for moving IMAP accounts from one server to another, with all folders and sent / receive dates intact. Whether you want to migrate a single user or an entire company from Exchange to Kerio, or from Googlemail to Mac OS X Server Mail, or from Communigate to Zimbra, Imapsync makes the process easy and safe for your customers.  Join Dean Shavit, Apple Certified System Administrator and author of Mac HelpMate, for a three-hour power workshop focusing using Mac HelpMate for troubleshooting locally and remotely. Many Mac HelpMate users and subscribers have requested a training session on how to use all of its features, and since Mac World San Francisco is the biggest gathering of Mac HelpMate users, we decided to go ahead and fulfill that request. If you're currently a Mac HelpMate subscriber, you'll learn how to configure and use new powerful features like Auto HelpMate, Mac HelpMate ZIRO and Mac HelpMate Proactive Alerts for remote support, as well as better ways of leveraging features you use every day. If you're not a Mac HelpMate subscriber, but are just curious, feel free to attend for a "crash course" in how Mac HelpMate can augment (and in some cases transform!) your consulting or support workflow, as well as valuable information on how to market Mac HelpMate - related services to your customers.
